

Nicholas Kontaxis Solo Exhibition (West Contemporary Gallery, Mayfair)

There's a unique exhibition currently taking place in London's Mayfair. Primarily due to the artist responsible for the colourful works on show. 23-year-old artist, Nicholas Kontaxis suffers from a brain tumour which he was diagnosed with at 15, intractable seizures, autism and developmental delay.

Nicholas is self-taught, creating large scale acrylics on canvas and has been commissioned by Coachella, Addidas and more. His work is being shown for the first time at 35 Baker Street. Nicholas' family's goal is to see his gigantic paintings hung in hospitals and in corporations around the world to encourage people to see the world a bit differently.
